WE NOMINATE

Luigi Mario Crocco and Martin Summerfield, ranking among the world's foremost authorities in their areas within the ever-widening scope of astronautics and both residents of Princeton for the past 12 years, whose election to the International Academy of Astronautics has underscored this community's growing concern with matters interplanetary. Compressed into the period since both were first appointed to Princeton University's Department of Aeronautical Engineering in 1949 have been the most sweeping changes in local history, including the establishment of the James Forrestal Research Center (on the site once occupied by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research) and the development of a totally new concept of Princeton-based research.

The Academy of Astronautics, founded a year ago with the support of the Guggenheim Foundation, now lists 76 members, drawn from 18 countries. Of this number, four are Princetonians. The 52-year old Crocco and the 44-year old Summerfield have now joined Lyman Spitzer Jr., Director of the University's Plasma Physics Laboratory (formerly Project Matterhorn), and John Cobb Cooper, Professor Emeritus of International Air Law in McGill University. This winter the last-named, a senior statesman in "space law", attracted wide notice by asserting in the Journal of the American Bar Association that we face chaos "unless the rule of law between states is extended to outer space."

Currently serving as Robert H. Goddard Professor of Jet Propulsion, a chair honoring the "father of American rocketry", Crocco, a young 52 and a native of Palermo, Sicily, is a long-established veteran in a still uncharted science. Some three decades ago, while studying as an undergraduate in the University of Rome, and with his father directing all scientific development in Italy, he was working on powder and liquid propellant rockets. In the early 1930's, 15 years before New Jersey's first wind tunnel was brought into operation, Crocco made major contributions to the famous tunnel at the Guidonia Research Laboratory near Rome, one of the first high-speed tunnels ever built.

The New York-born Summerfield, a force in the development of the rocket engine for the first rocket plane in the United States, has helped blaze trails in much the same way Crocco did in Italy. For instance, in connection with this country's announcement in 1955 of plans for an earth satellite, there was a renewed demand for a paper he had published in 1947 with another American scientist—"The Problems of Escape from the Earth by Rocket." And a more recent publication, still antedating the "space age" by several years and entitled "Problems of Launching an Earth Satellite", was as eagerly sought by experts everywhere.

In recent months, Summerfield, outspoken and versatile, and originally called here as editor of the University's publications program in high-speed aerodynamics and jet propulsion, has been rocketing in new realms. Weeks before President Kennedy set forth his epoch-making, and controversial, proposals for Federal aid to education, Summerfield publicly outlined "The Case for Federal Aid" and termed it, despite the dangers, the only solution to "academic finance." Most significantly, here was a scientist advocating massive grants to all divisions of learning in place of government research contracts in the sciences.

For focusing attention on Princeton's on-going evolution as a center of research in the aeronautical sciences; for playing major roles in undertakings which are broadening man's understanding of the universe around him; for leading others onward, and outward, to "New Frontiers"; they are our nominees for

DEED ACCEPTED
For Community Gardens
Months of negotiation and discussion came to a formal close Monday night when Township and Princeton Community Gardens from the Princeton Community Parks Foundation.

According to the terms of the deed, the 50-odd acres may be developed only in accordance with the Master Plan for Community Gardens worked out by the landscape engineering firm of Clarke and Rappano and adopted by the Township Planning Board in November, 1960.

If the plan is altered in any way, its proposed changes must be approved by the Planning Board, and the alterations, if any, must conform to the general concept of use worked out by Clarke and Rappano and approved by the Planning Board.

"All the citizens of the Township, through the Committee, extend their thanks to the Community Parks Foundation trustees," said Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman. Following the acceptance of the deed, the committee then transferred to the Township Board of Education the seven-acre plot of Community Gardens set aside for the new Community Garden School.

The plot of land known as "Community Gardens" occupies both sides of Route 205 south of Township Hall and the land facing Witherspoon across from Valley Road School. It is on this plot of land that the new school will be built.

The land was originally purchased shortly before World War II by a group of Princeton residents, including Mrs. Edgar Palmer, Mrs. Bernard Peyton, Mrs. Agnes Pyne Cole, Mrs. John McCarthy, David McAlpin and Abbridge C. Smith, III, who bought it to prevent the area from being developed as a commercial gasoline alley.

They planned to hold it in the public interest as a park and open space, and during World War II they offered plots of it free to anyone who would use the land for victory gardens. Many residents of Princeton did use it for this purpose and it was "farmed" extensively during the war years.

During the formulation of the Township Master Plan a few years ago, members of Township Committee approached Mr. McAlpin and the "Community Gardens" trustees, and suggested that the land be turned over to the Township for public use.

At first, the Trustees objected to the idea of a school on the property, because they wanted the land to be used for recreation only. However, the Trustees succeeded in convincing the Trustees that a school would be in the best interests of the Township and would not necessarily eliminate the idea of community recreation for the Gardens. Although no iron-clad guarantee was involved, the school and the Gardens will complement each other. The school board has allocated additional funds to include in the school a large gymnasium, a shower and locker room, all of which can be used by residents of the Township.

In turn, the school will use the playing fields of Community Gardens for athletic and recreational activities. The state department of education requires 15 acres of land for the kind of school planned for the school board, but because of the adjacent Community Gardens, the state agreed to approve the seven-acre plot now set aside for the school.

STUDENTS SPEAK UP
At School Board Meeting, Princeton High School students held their annual chance to confer with members of the Borough Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night. A team of 11 students, chosen in a previous school election, presented planks representing suggestions which had been approved by the student body. (Pictures, page 3.)

Leader of the group this year was John Dalle Pezzo, who served as superintendent of schools on Student Administration Day. Present as "an interested citizen" was Peter McNulty, student chairman of the Student Administration Day Committee. The other nine members of the team were assigned to represent the various board members.

Suggestions ranged from courses which might be added to the curriculum to purchase of a trampoline. While members of the board expressed interest in all the ideas, none was approved outright at the meeting. Some required further investigation as to cost or feasibility and others fell into the realm of administration rather than board responsibility. Only one suggestion was denied.

Graham Rohrer, president of the school board, turned his travel over to John Bonaguidi, his student counterpart, at the beginning of the student section of the meeting, and Bersinger presided at the student session. Students, the board members they represented, their suggestions and the responses of the board were as follows:

I. Billie Reiser, representing Dean Jeremiah S. Finch, vice president of the board:

extending the curriculum to include three new courses—advanced mechanical drawing, economic geography and advanced biology; praised by the entire board, particularly Dean Finch, and referred to school administration.

2. Marty Lombardo, representing Dr. Henry Abrams: purchase of new choir robes to replace present 10-year-old ones; and establishment of sports banquets; the board was in favor of new choir robes and advocating buying them as soon as possible; sports banquets, however, were felt to involve many problems; both ideas referred to administration.

8. Russel Perone, representing William K. Evans: purchase of movie camera to record important school events; the board felt this might be a good project if used constructively, and in helping to teach photography; referred to administration.

4. Bill Armstrong, representing Dean Elmer G. Hornig: purchase of trampoline—Continued on Page 2

PERSON PERSON

A friend handed us a clipping from the New York Times Magazine which said a lot of people missed and might find interest in the article, "Thoughts on Fame," famous and otherwise, by Jacob L. Davis, was in the October 23 issue of 1960, and here is a quote from it: "Fame may be earned, but it is counted on. Those who hunger for it most usually never taste it. Some who do not seek it find that it has sought them. Others who glory in it during their lifetime may die and be forgotten. And a few who die after a lifetime of obscurity may yet receive the gift of fame from some future generation."

Our friend liked that because it so fittingly summed up the fickleness of fame and fame. He said, "You know, fame is a feathered goal, but one that comes most often from a forgetting of one's self and a concentration on the serving of others. Just as other favors must often come from that same serving of others." Well, our friend is quite a sage, and our only remark was that we don't ever hope to be famous, but we sure do concentrate on serving everyone who comes to us, whether for a major or minor want. If it is real satisfaction you want, with maximum savings, please let us serve YOU!

Friday night, the loss running to $185 in profit, about $70 in merchandise (watches, pens, a radio, playing cards) and an estimated $150 in damages, added to the brand new cash register... the thief jammed a rear window and broke through two doors, some time between Saturday night closing hour and 4:30 a.m. Sunday, when the thief arrived to find Sunday morning paper distribution... police believe the same thief broke a second-story window and gained entrance to the Oren Jack Turner studio at 112 Nassau, where $10 was taken.

Two dachshunds were rescued from the 18-foot deep excavation made for an addition to the Nassau Inn... Patrolman John Markson saved them from the mud and water and returned them to Peter F. Rothermel, 125 Lantry Place, whose only problem was to see they got a good bath.

The Borough's 27 miles of streets have consumed bituminous concrete at the rate of almost two tons per mile as the Engineering Department continues temporary repairs to ravages of ice, frost and snow... some areas may be completely repaved, and much curb repair and replacement is also on the schedule.

Despite this week's temperature boom into the high 60's, sub-freezing readings are still part of the early spring picture... two minimums of 26 were recorded last week, with a half-inch of snow falling Wednesday night before changing to rain.

Three Princeton High School pupils earned high honor ratings during the last marking period: senior Alexander Leitch, junior Linda Almgren, sophomore Carol Deering... Borough and Township Halls will be closed on Good Friday and parking meters may remain unfed.

Four hubcaps were stolen from a car owned by Dr. Frank Harrison of the Nassau Club while it was parked overnight in the Edwards Place lot... four women's wallets (without money) were found in a hedge bordering the Westminster Choir College campus by Stanley Wright, assistant business manager of the college... cards inside helped police trace them to four members of the choir of the First Presbyterian Church in Newark, Del., from whom they were stolen on Palm Sunday.

POLICE EXPANDED

To Township. A detective bureau, a lieutenant and two additional sergeants were created for the Township Police Department Monday night following passage of a new ordinance by Township Committee. The new ordinance consolidates and brings up to date the various regulations affecting the police department.

The first lieutenant to serve in the newly-created position will be Sgt. Richard V. Steiner, who has been on the Township force for 11 years. The two new sergeants will be Patrolman John F. Petrone and Michael Lisi.

The newly-formed detective bureau will be under the guidance of Patrolman Fred E. Porter who has also been promoted to the rank of sergeant. Patrolman Porter has been serving as an investigator for Township police. For the time being, he will serve as a one-man bureau, but eventually additional investigating personnel will be appointed, according to the announcement made by Committee.

Sergeant Steiner is an excellent officer for this new position of lieutenant," commented Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, "and we are sure that the very fine patrolmen we have named will also be very fine sergeants."

Formation was announced of a Traffic Safety Committee whose duties will be to review traffic and road conditions, recommend changes, co-ordinate Township traffic work with other municipalities, and so on. The Committee will consist of Dr. Henry J. Frank, 223 Jefferson Road, who has been asked to serve as the "private citizen" member; Police Chief James B. Campbell, Jr.; Police Commissioner Maurice Healy; Township Engineer James Breth; Assistant Township Attorney Harvey S. Moore, Jr.; Superintendent of Schools William Purcell and Township Administrator Joseph Nini.

Mr. Nini presented to Committee a memorandum recommending that building permits be issued only after permits have been obtained for curbs, sewer connections, street openings, plumbing and other construction necessities. Mr. Nini said that so many Township departments are involved—health, engineering, clerk and, in the case of sewers, the Borough engineer as well—that sometimes builders may go ahead without permits and departments may lose track of the status of a given construction project.

Committee passed a motion approving the memorandum and Committeeman Maurice Healy then said, "This is an extremely intelligent suggestion on the part of Mr. Nini and illustrates the sort of thing Committee had in mind when it created the post of Administrator. "Thank you," said Mr. Nini, "it was a staff job."

Sgt. Steiner, Township Juvenile Officer, submitted a report on the work of his department. According to the report, 89 juveniles were apprehended by the police, and of these, 46 were dismissed with warnings given to parents and to the juveniles themselves. Twenty-two were minor cases investigated by the Juvenile Officer and 21 appeared before Juvenile Referee Howard W. Stepp.

In a break-down by "cases," Sgt. Steiner's report showed 21 of malicious mischief, 13 trespassers, 11 breaking and entering, 10 each for larceny and shoplifting, five for possessing weapons, four motor vehicle, three fighting and two each of sex offenses and "stay-outs and roaming."

OFFICE BUILDING SET

Zoning Variance Granted. A variance in the off-street parking requirements for a proposed new three-story office building at 191 Nassau Street was approved by the Borough Board of Zoning and Adjustment at its meeting last Thursday night. Also approved were variances which would permit construction of a new building for Kline's Esso Station and two new academic buildings on the Princeton University campus. As is the case with all variances, these will have to receive final approval from Borough Council.

The variance granted for the office building, which is to be constructed in Saks and Associates, will permit the building to have only 19 off-street parking spaces instead of the 15 which would be required for this building under the zoning ordinance. The plans conform to all other zoning requirements.

Granting of the variance was questioned at the meeting by Edmund Cook of Edmund Cook & Co., 190 Nassau Street, an adjoining property. Stating—Continued on Page 4

that he had adjusted plans for remodeling of his building in order to conform to the zoning ordinance Mr. Cook said "if the Zoning Board gives Sands and Associates a variance, it will change our plans for our own building."

The only other complaints came from residents of Park Place, whose properties lie downhill behind the 194 Nassau Street site. Reporting that they already had problems with water draining down on to their land, they said they were afraid of worse problems with the new parking lot. In response to these complaints, the Zoning Board tied in its approval of the variance with a requirement that the parking area be adequately drained and that the Borough Engineering Department approve the drainage plans.

To fit in Colonial Style. The proposed new building was described as being of Colonial design and of fire-resistant masonry and steel construction. It will be 33 feet high, 35 feet wide and 166 feet long. George Sands of Sands and Associates said that construction is expected to start May 15, with the building presently on the site to be torn down before that.

The plans for the new building at Kline's Esso Station required three variances, two of which were granted, two of which were granted were for smaller front and rear yard areas. The one denied as for continued use of the present "Esso" sign in front of the station. Zoning requirements prescribe a smaller sign, and the Zoning Board said these requirements must be met.

Only complaint about the plans for the new gas station came from Richard Swinerton, owner of the private home at 5 Murray Place, directly behind the station. Mr. Swinerton was not opposed to construction of the station, but for two changes in the plans: that the building be set two feet from his property line instead of the one foot listed in the plans, and that the pipes for exhaust fumes be moved so that the fumes would not come directly toward his house. Both these requests were agreed to immediately by the representative of Esso Standard Oil Co.

Plans for the new station called for tearing down the present building and constructing a new one of Colonial design, 35 feet wide and 28 feet 8 inches deep. The island for gas pumps will be 13 feet from the side walk and 22 feet from the station. Construction is expected to begin in the near future.

—RANK E. DEY

The thunder already has growled a few times of late as the temperature moves upward. Just to keep matters even, however, last week managed to bring some wet spring snow for a few hours. Still is the word for the next several days, although probably not as heavy as Tuesday's 1961 high of 73. Showers possible Friday, followed by very pleasant Easter weekend weather.

Academic buildings on the Princeton University campus also required approval of a variance from the city-street parking requirements. The two buildings are to be located on the main campus with no adjacent parking spaces. However, Robert Johnstone, the university's business administrator, explained that those using the new buildings would be assigned parking space in the new lot the university is building at William Street and Olden Avenue.

The variance was granted with the provision that the Borough Engineering Department approve access arrangements and final parking plans. The new buildings, which had previously received approval from the Borough Planning Board, will be a School of Architecture and a Music Building, both to be located on the main campus between McGosh Hall and Palmer Physical Laboratory, parallel to Washington Street.

The Zoning Board also acted on two other applications for variances. A request from Benito Federico of 222 Ewing Street for approval of an addition to his house was granted on the condition that he reduce the use to single-family. A request from Clifford Coats of 204 Ewing Street for permission to convert his house to two-family use was also approved. Another request, from Rocco Pernice of 51 Maple Street, seeking a variance for improvements to second-floor apartment, was held over for further consideration by the board.

BOARD PLANS APPEAL

On Zoning Variance. Princeton Borough Board of Education voted at its meeting Tuesday to send a formal protest to Borough Council and the Borough Zoning Board of the zoning variance granted last Thursday for construction of a three-story office building at 194 Nassau Street. The board's protest is based on the fact that the proposed building would have a parking lot whose only entrance would be almost directly opposite Nassau Street School.

"The heavy traffic near Nassau Street School is already a bad problem," said Graham Rohrer, board president. "This new building and its parking lot would not only increase traffic but would also present the added problem of cars driving in and out against the main traffic flow."

The proposed new office building would be constructed by Sands and Associates. The variance granted last Thursday by the Zoning Board was to allow construction with adjoining parking space for only 18 cars instead of the 42 which would be required by the zoning ordinance. (See Zoning Board story elsewhere in this issue of TOWN TOPICS.)

In other action at its Tuesday meeting, the school board approved a retirement, two resignations and two new appointments. George Tindall, head of the physical education department at Princeton High School, is retiring this June after 35 years with the school system. Those resigning at the end of this school year are Mrs. Carolyn Arvey, mathematics teacher at Witherspoon School, and Mrs. Kathryn K. Rider, mathematics teacher at Princeton High.

New Teachers Named. New appointments approved by the board were Herriet Highfield as librarian at the high school and Miss Frances Urken as fourth grade teacher at Nassau Street School. Mr. Highfield, a graduate of Trenton State College, is currently librarian at Trenton Central High School. Miss Urken, a Princeton native, received her B.A. from Syracuse University and her M.A. from Columbia and is now teaching in Lawrence Township.

YOU MEET THE MOST INTERESTING PEOPLE—that is, when you commute with the P. J. & B. (Princeton Junction & Back) Players. The newly-formed dramatic group, composed of members of the McCarter Theatre Company, the Princeton Community Players, the Triangle Club and the Princeton Ballet Society, will present the musical "Guys and Dolls" April 13, 14 and 15 at McCarter. The nonchalant commuter seated in the center here seems unaware that he is surrounded by members of the cast, including Betty Fessell, who plays the Hot Box Girl; Stuart Duncan, who will have the role of Nathan Detroit; and Tyler Gatchell with the dark glasses.

News Of The THEATRES

"HAMLET" GIVEN
 As Final APA Play. For its final offering in the spring Shakespeare series at McCarter Theatre, the APA company gave last week a vital and full-blooded production of "Hamlet," presented, as all these Shakespeare offerings have been, with the exuberance that must surely have characterized the productions of Shakespeare's own day.

This company of skilled young professionals has concentrated on the excitement and theatricality of Shakespeare, pacing the plays with never-a-dull-moment speed, but pausing long enough to savor the best moments of high tragedy or low comedy. It is a common euphemism to say ever, to find that the supply that a company of actors is young and high-spirited, meaning that youth and good intentions sometimes have to substitute for skill and finesse. When one speaks of this company's youth, vigor and drive, however, there is no such intent. These young actors are thorough professionals and their command of the theatrical idiom has been a consistent delight all season.

It was thus with the final "Hamlet." From the first "Who's there?" that cracked out of the darkness, this was a first-rate theatrical experience. The production moved as Shakespeare would probably have liked to see it—with pace, suspense, tension, contrast and respectful attention to fine theatrical detail.

If the production was questionable in any way, it was in the occasional use of the First Quarto, regarded by scholars as a corrupt text and certainly a thing, almost literally, of shreds and patches. APA spokesman said that this was the first time the First Quarto had been used in any American production, and its introduction on this occasion can only be looked upon only as a stunt. It seemed to this reviewer that little was gained by the use of the text except noisily.

Easton Highly Versatile. As Hamlet, Richard Easton displayed another facet of the versatility that has made him one of the stars of this company without stars. His Dane was hot-tempered enough to shout down Laertes from Ophelia's grave, pensive enough to hold a still audience with soliloquy. An agile swordsman, an anxious and melancholy young man, he was a thoroughly convincing tragic hero.

And yet this production was not mounted as a one-man "Hamlet," built around a star. Good as Easton was, he did not by any means dominate the evening. In this production, "The play's the thing," and when the final drums sounded and Hamlet was borne away, it was the memory of the play itself that remained.

With the possible exception of Claudius and Gertrude, the other players were well cast. Jacqueline Brookes made the leap from the bounding Rosalind to the quiet Ophelia with surprising success, and presented a vision of a madhouse that was pitious and touching. Thayer David did his best work of the series as Polonius, it was a disappointment, however, to find that the supply and gifted Paul Spner, originally slated for Claudius, had been replaced by Edward Asner. The substitute was somewhat wooden as the King, and without the chilling malice which the part requires. Eulalia Noble was an adequate Queen.

This production was considerably more opulent than previous offerings in the series, and the imaginative costumes, the tremendous flaring banners and the march of light and shadow added immeasurably to the impact of the drama.

At this writing, a scant week after the final "Hamlet," the future plans of McCarter and the Association of Producing Artists have not been announced, if they are known at this early stage. One can only hope that this talented young troupe will remain in repertory in Princeton and bring to this community, as it did so successfully with Shakespeare and with last fall's "Comedy" series, a continuing round of first-rate productions mounted with taste, skill and imagination. It has been a truly rewarding season.

COME TO "A PARTY"

With Comden and Green, Betty Comden and Adolph Green will present their Broadway show, "A Party," Friday evening, April 21, at McCarter Theatre. This will be the show's first stop on a nationwide tour. Miss Comden and Mr. Green are writers and lyricists as well as performers, and the show includes examples of all three of their talents.

Both New Yorkers, Miss Comden and Mr. Green are known for their affectionate spoofing of Greenwich Village, Manhattan bistros, the Metropolitan opera and the New York subway. WORLD PREMIERE SET
 For Student - Written Film
 "The Path," a film written and directed by Princeton undergraduate E. A. Dixon, will have its world premiere Wednesday, April 26, at McCarter Theatre. This is Mr. Dixon's first work.

The story of this venture into film making by a Princeton undergraduate has been reported in newspaper columns coast. The New York Times carried a story on Mr. Dixon on November 3, 1960, and also ran a feature on the project in its Sunday magazine.

The film was produced by Film Art Productions, Inc., of Princeton, an organization formed to produce this movie and future undertakings of Mr. Dixon, its president, and other members of the company. Among the company's officers are John C. Craig, Jr., and Hal A. Kroeger, Jr., of C-K Productions.

"The Path" is scheduled for commercial release this Fall and for limited television showing at a later date. A second movie, "Eighth Day of the Week," will be shown with "The Path" at the April 26 premiere. There will be two complete performances, one at 7 p.m. and one at 9:15 p.m. Tickets, at 75 cents each, may be bought at the University Store.

THE PLAYHOUSE
 The Millionairess (March 29-April 1). When Sophia Loren, as a spoiled heiress, opens a Paris clinic, the proud, proud boasts, "I have the most beautiful equipment in the world." This sort of statement will be like: a series of farces and double meanings leaning heavily on sex as a subject.

ANIMAL FARM: Captain, Colonel and Tibbs listen to the sounds of 101 dalmatians who have been kidnapped and hidden on the farm where they live in Walt Disney's "101 Dalmatians" which begins at the Playhouse Sunday. The cartoon feature, in color, will run for a week.

Happily, however, Peter Sellers is also in the movie and manages to keep it above the usual run-of-the-mill "racy" comedy. Sellers, one of England's top comics, plays his role as the unsensible doctor fairly straight and comes off quite well by utilizing the British type of understatement comedy.

Miss Loren's acting ability is limited to posing, but, then, who's to say that's necessarily a fault. Especially in a picture like this where sometimes it's better to just look than listen. Alastair Sim and Vittorio De Sica head the support cast. CinemaScope, color, Miss Loren.

101 Dalmatians (April 2-6). When Walt Disney is bad, he is very, very bad, but when he's good he's thoroughly entertaining. "101 Dalmatians" marks his return to the happy, feature - length cartoon and brings back memories of the highly successful "Peter Pan" and "Lady and the Tramp."

In fact, the heroine of the current cartoon has a great resemblance to "Lady" of the earlier picture, but this one has a much better story. Narrated by Pongo, a Dalmatian hound, it concerns the efforts of his mate, Perdita, and himself to rescue 99 (count 'em) puppies from the evil Cruella De Vil.

Cruella is a schoolmate of Perdita's mistress who wants to have a coat made of Dalmatian fur. The plot leads to many scenes of mystery and humor which are all quite enjoyable for young and old alike. A musical score by George Burns includes three novelty songs "Cruella De Vil," "Dalmatian Plantation" and "Kanine Krunchies Commercial" written by Mel Leven.

"101 Dalmatians" is in Technicolor.

THE GARDEN

Ben-Hur (Limited Engagement) is the most expensive picture ever made. Filmed in Italy, it took five years and $18,000,000 to complete. Since then, it has received 11 Academy Awards: awards as the Best Picture of the Year from the New York Film Critics, the British Film Academy and the Hollywood Foreign Press, the Screen Producers' Guild Award; and the Screen Director's Guild Award. It's not TIAO good.

However, there is something in it for everyone. A tender, moving love affair; plenty of action in the battle scenes between two navies; the story of Christ, simply told (except for a terrible prodigy) and the growing enmity between two brothers all tend to keep the long (3 hours, 32 minutes plus one intermission) picture moving at a furious pace.

And the chariot race. The chariot race is one of the miracles of modern movie-making. It is the spectacle to end all spectacles, a masterpiece of staging, camera-work and stunt riding. It begins just after the intermission. If you want to avoid the slower half of the picture.

Acting is at peak performance throughout, from the old masters (Charlton Heston and Jack Hawkins) to the newcomers (Stephen Boyd and lovely Hava Harareet). Defects, besides the length, include the prologue and an excess of brutality and sublimity. The epilogues to the chariot race and the galley battle and the crucifixion scene all seem at least to approach, if not actually violate, the bounds of good taste.

"Ben-Hur" is in color and Panavision. Special times will be every day, including Sundays at 1:30 and 7:30. Special prices will also prevail. Recommended.

IT'S NEW To Us

DANSK DOES IT

Again, The Dansk designers, noted for their affinity for teak, have been practicing with copper, and they have now mastered the craft so completely that they are offering their new line for sale at Princeton Gourmet.

Dansk presents a group of covered copper casseroles, all round, but not all alike. Some are conventional in proportion, deep, almost like buckets. They have been fashioned with fin linings and atraps of brass for linings.

Inside are porcelain inserts that can be lifted out and used alone, if you wish. With the insert, the casserole shell can be filled with hot water, and used as a warmer for the lining.

One model has an alcohol warmer at the hub of a brass wheel, but this brass frame does not necessarily belong to this model alone. Adjusted, its trivet will fit all the other models, too. Sizes in the line range from two to seven quarts.

One new Dansk salad bowl has straight sides and another has an inward curving lip all around the diameter. The latter is just about the biggest salad bowl you've ever seen, fashioned of matched wedges of teak that meet in a four-inch disc in the bottom of the bowl. Why cover its beauty with lettuce?

You'll also pay some careful attention to a round sloping carving board, slanted to catch all the juices at the far end. This 15-inch board has a circular insert made of one-inch pieces of cross-grain fitted together in checkboard mosaic. A lengthwise strip of wood lifts the board at one end to provide the slant. $19.95. (There's a little board, without the slant, for cheese, $11.95).

Japanese porcelain, oven proof, comes in a 20-piece table setting for $25. Gourmet

Cee-Oh-Two at Work

We like to see the way modern industry applies basic scientific principles to the enrichment of human life and we have recently added to our collection of applied principles of science the new corkerware now available at Princeton Gourmet.

The Cork-Ace ($10) looks like a large and deadly hypodermic needle. It contains within its body a cylinder of carbon dioxide just like the cylinders that provide the squirt for seltzer bottles. At the end of the body is a needle. You slick the needle into the cork of the bottle, give it a "pfft" of gas and then wait with effortless ease while the cork coozes out the top of the bottle.

This was invented by an Englishman (not by the Frenchman you've been suspecting all this time) and he says it's the first new thing in corkerware in a thousand years. Care to dispute? A cylinder needs 30 bottles, by the way. Refills are 15c.

has two colors in the same pattern: shades of terra-cotta on white and shades of turquoise and olive on white. The pattern is a simple border of teardrops, in four shades of the predominant color.

Looks rather like an artist's palette. Cup, saucer, cream and sugar are solid terra-cotta or turquoise. Serving pieces are open stock.

People who are on non-fat diets or people who hope to avoid that state, will be interested in the new silicone-lined aluminum cooking wear from Switzerland. Skillets in three sizes, saucepans in four sizes, are ready to cook in, without the addition of any fat at all.

Fry an egg or a chop, stir up oatmeal or pudding, and then wipe the pan clean without even elbow grease—that's how fat-free you'll be. Prices start at $4.95 for the little skillet.

Gourmet is particularly pleased with a little French electric coffee mill ($3.95) which you can use to grind a fresh cup every morning. Used with its attachment, it will serve as a small-scale blender, and you may entrust to it mayonnaise, crushed ice and fruit juice for sherbets and so on.

The leaflet says you can make flour from grains. Incidentally, Gourmet has of course the whole beans to start your coffee with.

From Spain—and you'd know, just to look at them—comes a collection of wrought iron skewers with lace-work handles and a grille work skewer holder that very nearly wears a mantilla. You get four and the rack for $19.95.

Sweden prefers something a bit more prosaic. It's a six-man cast iron frying pan for making those wafery Swedish pancakes, and Gourmet thoughtfully has on its kitchen shelf the pancake mix from Sweden to start you off. There's also a heart-shaped waffle iron.

Before you leave the shop, you'll pick up two Fiddlesticks to keep the kiddies busy next time the TV set breaks. A Fiddlestick is an 18-inch long cylinder of clear plastic which contains a handkerchief or so exploded styrofoam balls, each about the size of a small pea.

Rub the cylinder with your hand and the static electricity will make the styrofoam come to life. The trick is to grasp one end of the stick, let someone else grasp the other, and see who can get the greatest hit most prosaic. It's a six-man cast iron frying pan

THE PRINCETON FUEL OIL CO.

220 Alexander Street

We are often asked at the princeton Fuel Oil Company to compare an oilburning water heater with gas and electric heaters.

We have learned in answering this question that surprisingly enough few people are interested in the real savings that accrue
when oil is used to heat
water.

It has been determined that an average family will use approximately 3000 gallons of hot water per month. This will require 30 gallons of oil, which based on a 15 cent per gallon oil would cost about $4.50 per month or 15¢ per day.

Gas to heat the same amount of water will cost approximately 40 cents.
Electricity will use about 100 kwh. At the current rates and kwh rate, you can realize an approximate 10% or more saving when it is your fuel.

However, in our experience this saving alone is not the prime interest in the prospective customer. What a family wants and needs is a water heater that PER-FORMANCE - THE ABILITY TO GENERATE heat ECONOMY - ALREADY AND QUICKLY.

In this regard, a typical 30-gallon gas water heater
will supply about 30 gallons of water per hour. A 55-gallon gas water heater
will supply about 40 gallons per hour.

A 30-gallon electric heater will supply about seven gallons of hot water per hour and an 80-gallon electric heater only about 17 gallons per hour.

On the other hand, an oil-fired hot water heater can supply 120 gallons of hot water per hour or all the hot water you can possibly use - and at the most economical cost.

We would recommend that you consider an oilburning water heater installed by Princeton Fuel Oil Company if you want economy and abundant supply of hot water.

MUSIC

In Princeton

MIXED SUCCESS

For Princeton Symphony.
The Princeton Symphony presented its third concert of the season on Monday night in Mc-Carter Theatre. Considering the success in musical terms of its two previous appearances, the evening turned out to be something of a disappointment.

The opening Haydn "Symphony No. 93" was the most rewarding portion of the concert; the performance was perhaps overly polite, but it retained the essential vigor and wit of this exuberant symphony, one of Haydn's finest.
The musicianship of the orchestra was solid throughout the work; the Minuetto proved to be especially engaging, with the cello solo of the Trio vivacci projected by David Wells.
This is precisely the sort of music which such an orchestra should do, and does well.

The performance of Frank
the orchestra's essentially sound tradition of playing works by Princeton composers.
Unfortunately, this particular work fell far short of the standards set by previous ventures of this sort.
Mr. Lewin's essay in "cinematic" to borrow a phrase from a national weekly was as impoverished yet pretentious a piece of music as this reviewer has ever heard, in content, intent, and execution.

Its title proved appropriate for the listener could easily
"evolve," in his mind's eye,
pictures of Roman gladiators, dapper ships, and other wonders from the world of cinemascope. Such conceit should be restricted to their native habitat, the curved screen; to present them on symphonic programs is an insult to the serious concertgoer.

The concluding work on the program, the Brahms "Violin Concerto," proved to be an almost total disaster, through no fault of the Princeton Symphony, which gave it all, as it usually does with guest soloists. In this case the soloist, Robert Gerle, did not respond in kind.

Although playing with a certain degree of precision and assurance and a sort of elemen-tal athletic vigor, Mr. Gerle's playing combined a forced and uply tone with the most apparently bad intonation this reviewer has heard in years. His clippy phrasing and total lack of dynamic shading denied this great concerto of all musical shape and impulse; for example, the violin's entrance in the slow movement was played at the same dynamic level (and with the same strid-ency) as the climaxes from the first movement, oblittering the transparent dialogue with the winds which Brahms envisions. Mr. Gerle's sense of rhythm was equally unrefined; the last movement, which must be crisp and intelligent in order to be successful, was plodding and labored in the extreme, and in the first movement some of the soloist's passages sounded like nothing more than sawing wood in triple meter.

"If the Brahms" concerto was such an unrewarding experience, perhaps some reflection on the Princeton Symphony's custom of hiring "name" soloists to perform concerts should be reconsidered. With the large number of exceptionally talented Princeton musicians available, why should Princetonians pay for, and worse still, listen to, such musical massacre as More than performance?

Another imposition, of a less misleading but nonetheless discomforting nature, should be mentioned. Harstanyi's usual vigorous gestures were at least partially obscured to the audience by the use of the distraction of microphones placed directly before the podium. One wondered whether the concert was for the benefit of the audience or the recording engineers presented in the wings. Such tape recording should either be done more discreetly or not at all.

The concert concluded with an impromptu encore, a performance of a group of seashanties arranged by Mrs. Dorothy Kimmich, which had been presented on the children's concert earlier in the day. It was even such a success at that event that it was repeated, by popular demand, on the evening program. And indeed, the shanties, both in their scoring provided a pleasing conclusion to the concert.

BRAHMS WORK FEATURE
Of Concert Saturday, Brahms' Third Symphony will be featured in the performance
Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Princeton High School by the Harvard-Radcliffe Orchestra.
The orchestra is appearing here under the sponsorship of the Princeton Chapter AFS International Exchange. Proceeds will be used for local AFS Scholarships.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Michael Sen-tella, who was graduated from Harvard in 1958 and is now a member of its music faculty.
Other works on the program will include Bach's "Ricercar," Mozart's "Violin Concerto in G Major" and Stravinsky's
"Symphonies of Wind Instruments."

A member of the orchestra is Miss Alison Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A.
Wheeler of Maxwell Lane, who plays the cello. She is a graduate of Princeton High School and is now a student at Radcliffe.

Members of the Princeton Chapter AFS will be hosts to members of the orchestra during their visit to Princeton.
Arrangements for the concert are under the direction of Mrs.
Lyie C. Fitch of Red Hill Road and arrangements for housing are being made by Mrs. H.W.
Levever of Westcott Road.
Tickets, at $1 each, may be obtained from Mrs. Levever or at the door the night of the concert.

CONCERT IS HIGHLIGHT of Annual Westminster Choir. The concert
Tuesday evening at Mc-

Carter Theatre by the Westminster Choir will be a highlight of the Choir College's Annual Week program, to be held Tuesday through next Thursday. The concert, which is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., will be under the direction of Dr. Elaine Brown, the choir's guest conductor.

Other features of the Annual Week program will be a high-organ concert by the world-famous Lady Sui Jones, to be held Tuesday at 4 p.m., and the Choir College Chapel, and a Founders' Day Program on Thursday afternoon. Dr.
John Philip Williamson, founder and first president of the Choir College, and Mrs. Williamson will speak at the program on their recent six-month's work conducting music workshops and festivals in the Orient.

During his visit to the Annual Week program Dr. Williamson will also rehearse a desert body and alumni in Brahms "German Requiem."
More than 100 alumni from all parts of the country are expected to return to Princeton for the Annual Week activities.

The Westminster Choir, which has recently returned from a three-week tour of the midwestern states is composed of 40 singers from all parts of the country. Among them are Robert Ruckelshaus of 69
Galbreath Drive, Princeton.

Varied Program Set. The program of the Choir's concert on Tuesday will cover a range of variations from the 16th and 17th century masters and the church music of Bach to the love songs of Brahms and folk songs from different nations. This will be the same program which the Choir sang on tour.

Composers represented in the madrigal section are Orlando di Lasso, Palestrina, Orlando Gibbons, Thomas Morley, Monteverdi, Carlo Gesual-di di Venosa and Adriano Bancieri. The folk songs include Spanish, American, Slavic and French pieces.

HARSTANY TO CONDUCT
Trenton Concert April 6. Nicholas Harstanyi, conductor and musical director of the Greater Trenton Symphony Orchestra, will conduct his concert Sunday evening, April 6, at the War Memorial Building. Trenton, Mr. Harstanyi will lead the ensemble in Beethoven's
"Symphony No. 5" and Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture."

Guest soloist at the concert will be Eleanor Steber, soprano star of the Metropolitan Opera, who is making an unprecedented second appearance of the season with the Trenton Symphony. Miss Steber, who was soloist at the Symphony's opening program of the season on December 11, consented to return after learning that William Kincaid, flutist with the Philadelphia Orchestra is ill and will be unable to appear.

The December 11 concert was a virtual sellout, but the blizard that evening prevented many people from attending.
For her appearance, April 6
Miss Steber will sing works from Verdi and Mozart. Tickets for the concert may be obtained at the Symphony's business office in the Kiffin Piano Store, 224 East State Street, Trenton, or may be reserved
by calling EX 4-1338.

ETCH A SKETCH
Or Kola-Bola. To etch a sketch, you first buy an Etch-a-Sketch from Zinder's for $3.98. This is a five-by-seven inch television screen (we'll call that's what it looks like) with two knobs at its base.

Turn the vertical knob and a vertical line begins to travel up or down the silver screen. Turn the horizontal knob, and a line starts across the screen.

Turn them both, and if you are skillful enough, you'll get a curve. It's an uncanny and fascinating piece of business to play with, and the children will have a hard time getting it away from daddy.

Kola-Bola is a target game. You take the baseball-sized plastic ball and roll it toward a scored target on the floor. Sand within the ball brakes it to a stop and your problem is to roll it just hard enough to hit a high score on the target. 98 cents.

"Green Thumb" is a garden kit with a difference. You plant in a shallow, perforated cup filled with vermiculite, a few radish, pink or pea seeds (all provided in the set). Then you put the shallow cup on top of a glass of water, and watch the roots grow through the holes down into the water. Educational as the dickens. An instruction booklet, probably from the County Agent, tells your young farmer what a root is. $1.98.

To play Building Boom, you start with a ten-inch skyscraper that has a plastic trough descending in zig-zag down its facade. Place a marble at the top, and while the marble is rolling down its course, you begin with all possible and frantic speed, to construct a tower out of some small plastic blocks.

The person who builds highest, biggest and fastest before the marble gets to the bottom, wins. We can hear the hilarity from here.

In the game department, Zinders is particularly happy about the Wondercolor series, which is built around a micro-porous plastic color that is like ink, but without the spill. For example. In one set, you get

FASHIONS FOR CHAPIN: A luncheon-fashion show to benefit The Chapin School will be held at the Nassau Inn on May 3, and plans are already being made for the event. Mrs. Bernard O. five color sticks, each one with a different ink color. Dab the ends of the sticks on the outline pictures provided in the set, and you're an artist, in the Seurat style.

Or take the stencil set, and use rollers impregnated with color to roll on the stencilled designs. With "Animal Stamps," you have a choice of rubber stamp animals with the color already in the stamp. "Sixty-four pages of Things to Do," says the instruction booklet, and what mother wouldn't be happy with that!

GREEN THUMB. . . . Crabgrass? Many a green thumb has been scorched by crab grass, and to keep this from happening to you, 208 Hardware now has Dow Chemical's new crab-grass killer designed for application and control right now, before the grass can sprout. Crab Grass Killer (no fancy name here) is a granular substance which can be applied either with a standard lawn spreader or by hand. To be effective, it must prevent the seed from germinating in the spring — it's not designed to kill the full-grown plant — so you'd better oil your spreader and get ready.

The new product has, in test, proved particularly effective with grasses like Merion Blue or Kentucky Blue, which thrive in open sunlight (Crab grass likes sun, as you know.) It will not discolor or injure the basic turf.

SIDNEY ROLLE KILLED

HUGHES TO SPEAK

To Democratic Forum. Richard J. Hughes, Democratic candidate for governor, will address the newly formed Democratic Forum of Princeton Township at a public meeting to be held Tuesday, April 4, at 8:30 p.m. at Valley Road School.

Judge Hughes will speak briefly and will then turn the meeting over to questions from the audience. The Democratic candidate is a former Superior Court judge and a former resident of Princeton. He now lives in Trenton.

Preceding the address, the 18 Democratic County Committee men and Committeewomen at Princeton Township will meet with Mr. Hughes for an informal dinner.

At this meeting, the Committee will discuss plans for overcoming the expected voter apathy toward primary elections. The New Jersey primary will be held on April 18.

"YES" IS PROGRESSING

Business. Queried, A letter and a descriptive leaflet outlining the purposes of the new Youth Employment Service will be sent shortly to about 700 business and professional organizations in the Princeton area. The Chamber of Commerce, which has endorsed YES, will send the material with a checklist card on which employers may indicate the jobs they have available or suggest other jobs which young people might fill.

The cost of the special mailing is being covered, not by the Chamber's own funds, but by voluntary contributions from individual members of the Board of Directors.

YES is still in the planning and organization stage and there are, as yet, no facilities for accepting applications.

BOOK FAIR PLANNED

By Valley Road School. Aimed at stimulating interest in reading, a Book Fair has been planned for April 24-26 by the Valley Road Parent-Teachers Association. To take place in the school library, the fair will permit students to browse and purchase their books from a varied assortment of volumes between 8 and 4 on the three fair days.

Upper grade students are currently at work composing linericks and posters to heighten interest in the fair. Last year 348 books were purchased at the fair, with sales totaling $689.41. Proceeds were used for the Valley Road and Johnson Park school libraries.

Co-chairmen Mrs. Simon Marcolson and Mrs. Heinz Heiman have announced the following committee chairmen: Mrs. Mortimer Feldman, finance; Mrs. G. W. Rake, posters; Mrs. Jerome Lawson, teacher liaison; Mrs. John Kennedy, library; and Mrs. Leonard Hackenbush, speakers.

ment Committee of the Central Atlantic Area YMCA for "distinguished service to youth." Robert E. Gaynor of Millstone was also honored by the group. The gold key awards were presented by Dr. John F. Sly, chairman of the state committee which sponsors the YMCAs youth and government program. At a dinner held Friday in Trenton for the 300 Mid- and Tri-Hi-Y delegates who held a "model league session" in the capital over the weekend, Dr. William Miller, Princeton attorney, served as toastmaster. He is chairman of the model legislature program.

In his presentation comments, Dr. Sly pointed out that this is the first time in the 21-year history of the youth-and-government program that two men have been honored simultaneously. Dr. Frank is head of the pre-legislative conference held each year in Princeton and Mr. Gaynor is chairman of the committee on elections.

Dr. Frank is research associate in the state and local government section of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton. He taught economics at Rutgers and for the American Institute of Banking before joining the Princeton faculty. Mr. Gaynor is counsel to the boards of education in Franklin Township and South Brunswick and is borough attorney for Millstone.

POST 76 CITED

For Welfare Work. Princeton Post 76, American Legion, has received the annual child welfare citation from the National Child Welfare Commission of the American Legion. The award was accepted by Post Commander Henry J. Frank who has turned the citation over to the Post.

The award was granted to Post 76 for the work done in 1959-60 by its child welfare committee, headed by William Haupt. The award recognized cash contributions to child welfare cases in Princeton, sponsorship of the Princeton baseball team, and the Post's other work in the child welfare field.

As part of its program in this area, the Post recently voted to donate $25 to the Princeton High School PTA Senior Breakfast Party, following the night of the Senior Farewell Dance of May 26. Commander Frank, at the Post's last meeting, noted that April is American Legion Child Welfare Month.

ART WORKSHOPS SET

Beginning Saturday. A series of workshops, under the auspices of the Studio-on-the-Canal, for the spring term have been scheduled to begin Saturday, April 1, and continue through June 10. Drawing, oil and water color painting for children aged eight and older, is set for Saturday mornings.

A Monday evening program for adults, primarily for beginners, will also be held. In addition to oil, water color, painting and drawing, the adult sessions will include elementary instruction in landscape, figures and still-life painting.

A ten-week course in landscape painting is currently being held on Tuesday mornings, with both oil and water color techniques being professionally taught. Wednesday and Friday evenings will be devoted to professional commercial art sessions beginning on April 12. Two professional commercial artists will conduct the course.

FASHION SHOW SET

By South Brunswick Group. "Portrait of Fashion" is the title of the style show, to be presented by the South Brunswick Jaycees-ettes next Saturday, April 8. Mrs. William Neilson and Mrs. Ronald Burger are co-chairmen of the show, which will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room of the Cambridge School in Kendall Park.

Edward's in Kendall Park and Bailey's in the Princeton Shopping Center will provide the clothes, including sportswear, day and evening apparel, and maternity and children's clothes. The donation will be $1.

DEAR TRAVELEX,

Some friends of ours left on March 10th on board the S. S. Brazil. They are going on a "See Seferi"!!!

Their first stop was in the Barbados. We had a card from them and they said they took lots of pictures. Ox carts, windmills and all sorts of interesting and unusual things.

They loved the Old English atmosphere and had their first good look at coral reefs. Their post card picture shows a local policeman dressed, as they still do, in the uniform of Lord Nelson's days.

Their next stop is in Rio de Janeiro and we hope to hear from them again. See you next week,

The Princeton Window Cleaning Company of 4 Hulfish Street was fined $10 for operating a truck with no windshield wipers.

In criminal court, James Yancey, 75, of 7 Quinry Street was given a suspended 30 day fine for being drunk and disorderly. He was ordered, however, to pay court costs of $10. Mrs. Willie Yancey was the complainant.

REGISTRATION OPEN
For YMCA Adult Program. Preparatory to the start of the spring program on April 10, registrations are now being accepted for YMCA adult programs. The spring session, to conclude on June 17, will provide activities for men, women and families in four areas, John S. Mount, chairman of the adult program, has announced.

Offering a combination of instruction and playing experience will be the physical activities in tennis, squash, golf, fencing, weight lifting, badminton, judo, badminton, volleyball, softball, horseshoes, skin diving, life saving and swim instruction. The pool will be available for recreational swimming at noon times, evenings and at night.

A second area of activity will include informal education with joint YM-YW classes in ceramics and bridge. Other classes under YMCA auspices will include art, beginners and advanced horseback riding, radio and ping pong club, and the outing club.

An opportunity for family participation will be offered by the father and son and family recreational swimming, by a May family picnic, a father and son canoe instruction, a canoe trip program and a Memorial day family camping weekend at the Y camp in Blairstown, N.J.

The fourth area will involve a special event activity and will include a YM-YW presentation on India, on April 13. Y families will also have an opportunity to entertain a United Nations delegation on May 6 and 7. Mr. Mount announced that brochures listing the activities have been mailed to all members. Interested persons may secure the brochure by contacting the YMCA office.

ARTHRITIS GROUP FORMS

Will Make Survey. A committee of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation under the co-leadership of Mrs. Edward R. PEACE MARCHERS IN PRINCETON: Annette Olden of Trenton and Alan Gossner of Roosevelt were members of almost 200 demonstrators parading through Princeton last Sunday on march to United Nations Plaza in New York. Marchers started at McGuire Air Force Base last Friday and hope to reach New York this Saturday. Demonstration was organized by New Jersey Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy. (James Blazard Photo.)

the committee is a survey of arthritic persons in the Princeton area. Those who suffer from the disease are asked to register through their physicians or pharmacists or to call WA 4-0381.

The arthritic registration and the information requested is statistically important to the objectives of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation whose aims are to educate both the public and arthritic patients in the nature of the disease, to finance clinical research to maintain and expand present home care restorative therapy programs and to expose quackery and fraud. The new committee is the outgrowth of an initial organizational meeting held by Mrs. William Byrd, Mrs. Hamilton Cottier, Mrs. C. duP. Donaldson, Mrs. Harold Erdmen, Mrs. Warren Kearny, Mrs. Seymour Morris, Mrs. John C. Williams and Gordon R. Barrett, executive director of the New Jersey chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

THREE LOSE LICENSES
For Driving Violations. Three area residents have had their driving privileges revoked for violation of New Jersey's motor vehicle laws.

Losing their licenses under the point system were William H. Sayen, 34, 48, of the Great Road, and Frank Sgro, 35, of Aldrich Road, Franklin Park.

Thanks First Aid Squad.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS: I would like to express my thanks and appreciation in behalf of my family and myself to the men of the Princeton First Aid & Rescue Squad Inc., for their fine work of all their services they render to the community. This is all volunteer work and they are always on hand at one's beck and call at any hour of the day or night.

They are always pleasant, courteous and consoling regardless of conditions. I think they deserve all the praise in the world for their fine work they do which is never at a stand-still.

These men devote their time to the injured and sick as well as to their own personal duties. Keep up your fine work men! It is nice to know we Princetonians have such a fine Squad!

Question of the Week

Question: How much hope do you hold out for a workable world disarmament plan?
Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. Roy Thompson, Hope-well, housewife: I say it's doubtful. I think the lack of progress we have made so far would indicate this. It seems each country wants to go its own way. I saw yesterday on TV that they have started another disarmament conference and that the Russian delegate wanted to back out of the agreements Russia had already made with other countries.

Samuel W. McCue, Jr., 74 Snowden Lane, retired: None. I think there are just too many details to be solved with people we have no confidence in.

Mrs. John B. Whitton, 14 South Stanworth Drive, housewife: I have some hope. I think it is possible if people get together and really try to work things out. Of course a lot depends on Russia. Without them, it probably would have been worked out long ago.

Miss Maria Lunick, 114 Elm Road, governess: I think it is always the same. There is a lot of talking, talking, talking and then nothing and they all go home again.

Mrs. Willana H. Scheide, 133 Library Place, co-chairman of the Princeton Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy: I think in the not too distant future we have got to have a disarmament plan if we are to survive and I think there is real hope for one in a number of ways. I think Khrushchev has found out he can't change things the way he wants them to be, such as trying to get the marketplace removed from the United Nations. World disarmament is the most difficult problem the world has ever faced. I don't think any half-way measures will work. It will take plenty of hard work to negotiate, but I'm sure that eventually we will have complete and total disarmament.

Roger Breece, Nashinick shoemaker: Personally, I think it is all talk and nothing will ever come of it. It's been going on so long — one country proposes one thing and another country proposes something else. It all leads to one thing, but if you can't even agree on what you are disagreeing about, in this case disarmament, then I don't see how the countries will ever get together.

Pasquale Romano, 85 Altamere Ave., Lawrenceville, owner of Center Shoe Repair: None. I think they should have gone together a long time ago. If they haven't been able to come up with a workable plan by now, I don't think they ever will.

make more concessions than they have in the past — which is none.

Nicholas Detonous, 258 Hawthorne Avenue, retired: Very, very slim. If we try to disarm, I think the others will try to take advantage of us. If the others had wanted to disarm, they would have shown a willingness by now. But as long as they hide their preparedness there is no sincerity toward disarmament; and as long as there is no sincerity toward disarmament, there is no use talking about it.

George Johnson, 413 Hodge Hall, Seminary student: I think they will eventually but certainly not in the near future. I think there are too many factors that have to be worked out first. I don't think either side right now is willing to give in; we're too suspicious of each other.

Mrs. George Taefner, Broadway Road, Cranbury, housewife: It will take a long time but I think it will happen eventually. Maybe next year.

Robert F. Christy, 61 Elmstein Drive, physicist: I have hope it will happen sometime but not necessarily today. It's too much to expect right now. One has to be reasonable about this.

Leo Truitt, 224-A King Street, graduate student, music: Very little, because I feel that by the time it is possible to work out an effective disarmament plan, it may no longer be necessary to do so. We will have reached a world situation wherein there is sufficient cooperation and trust among the countries so the need for disarmament will have been considerably reduced.

Alois Cobin, 114 Ewing Street, retired: The West and the East will never come together. I was born and raised in Austria and I was in Russia in 1917 at the time of the revolution and I know what the Communists are like. They are just like the Nazis — even worse. They want to take over everyone. You absolutely cannot make peace with the Russians. You cannot deal with these people. Mr. Kennedy may try his best but he will not get there. There will be no peace in the world.

Enoch Silver, Harris Road, Princeton Junction, painter and decorator: Because I am a seven-year veteran of World War II, I hope it all comes out that every country will have an equal chance to choose the way it wants to live, as the United States has. I hope it will come true as Mr. Kennedy requested the other night on TV that the Communists be our friends and that we're going to have peace with foreign countries. Kennedy will do it, I think there will be peace.

Miss Leslie Luck, 193 Laurel Circle, housewife: Not much this particular moment unless the Russians are willing to EGGS FOR ALL: Easter came early for children attending annual Egg Hunt sponsored by the Eagles last Saturday afternoon on the grounds of Princeton Country Day School. While there weren't quite enough eggs hidden in the fields for everyone to find one, members of the Eagles made up the difference by presenting basket full of jelly beans and candy eggs as consolation prizes. Connie Brokaw, 3, of 65 Woodside Lane (above left), obviously found her basket more than satisfactory, but two Lawrenceville boys (above right), Hank Malbury and Doug Egert, both 11, studied list of prizes before starting to hunt. Other egg hunters included (center right) Monica Negus, 5, and her brother, Christopher, 3, of 175 Harnon Street; and (lower right) Joanne Bogart, 5, of 193 Terhune Road, who received a bit of help from her mother, Mrs. Max Bogart.

Between A Risk And A Certainty ...

Following are excerpts from an address by Sir Charles P. Snow, "The Moral Un-Neutrality of Science," delivered before the American Association for the Advancement of Science in New York, December 27, 1960. Although meant for scientists, C. P. Snow's message is of crucial importance for every responsible citizen.

The discovery of atomic fission broke up the world of international physics. "This has killed a beautiful subject," said Mark Oliphant, the father-figure of Australian physics in 1945, after the bombs had dropped. In intellectual terms, he has not turned out right. In spiritual and moral terms, I sometimes think he has.

With the discovery of fission, and with some technical breakthroughs in electronics, physicists became, almost overnight, the most important military resource a nation-state could call on. A large number of physicists became soldiers not in uniform. So they have remained, in the advanced societies, ever since.

I see no evidence that scientific work in weapons of maximum destruction has been in any intellectual respect different from other scientific work. But there is a moral difference.

It may be that this is a moral price which, in certain circumstances, has to be paid. Nevertheless, it is no good pretending that there is not a moral price. Soldiers have to obey. That is the foundation of their morality. It is not the foundation of the scientific morality. Scientists have to question and if necessary to rebel.

I don't want to be misunderstood. I am not an anarchist. I am not suggesting that loyalty is not a prime virtue. I am not saying that all rebellion is good. But I am saying that loyalty can easily turn into conformity, and that conformity can often be a cloak for the timid and self-seeking. So, on obedience, carried to the limit.

When you think of the long and gloomy history of man, you will find far more, and far more hideous crimes, have been committed in the name of obedience than in the name of rebellion. If you doubt that, read William Shure's "Rise and Fall of the Third Reich."

Scientists Must Question

Scientists must not go that way. Yet the duty to question is not much of a support when you are living in the middle of an organized society. Only a very bold man, when he is a member of an organized society, can keep the power to say "no." I tell you that, not being a very bold man, or one who finds it congenial to stand alone, away from his colleagues, I can't expect many scientists to do it.

Is there any tougher ground for them to stand on? I suggest to you that there is. I believe that there is a spring of moral action in the scientific activity which is as strong as any other. The name of this spring is knowledge.

I had better take the most obvious example. All physical scientists know that it is relatively easy to make plutonium. We know this, not as a journalistic fact in second-hand experience. We can work out the number of scientific and engineering personnel it needs for a nation-state to equip itself with fission and fusion bombs. We know that for a dozen or more states, it will only take perhaps six years, perhaps less. Even the best informed of us always exaggerates these time periods.

Bombs Will Kill

This we know, with the certainty of — what shall I call it? — engineering truth. We also, most of us, are familiar with statistics and the nature of odds. WE KNOW, WITH THE CERTAINTY OF STATISTICAL TRUTH, THAT ENOUGH OF THESE WEAPONS ARE MADE — BY ENOUGH DIFFERENT STATES — SOME OF THEM ARE GOING TO BLOW UP. Through accident, or folly, or madness — but the motive doesn't matter. What does matter is the nature of the statistical fact.

All this we know. We know it in a more direct sense than any politician, because it comes from our direct experience, it is part of our minds. Are we going to let it happen?

Time Running Out

For we generally know the risks. WE ARE FACED WITH AN "EITHER-OR," AND WE HAVEN'T MUCH TIME. Either we accept a restriction of nuclear armaments. This is going to begin, just as a token of an agreement on the stopping of nuclear tests. The United States is not going to get the 99.9 per cent "security" that it has been asking for. It is unobtainable, though there are other arguments that the United States could probably secure. I am not going to conceal from you that this course involves certain risks. They are quite obvious, and no honest man is going to blink them.

That is the "either." The "or" is not a risk but a certainty. It is this. There is no agreement on tests, the nuclear arms race between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. not only continues but accelerates. Other countries join in. Within the next ten years, SOME OF THESE BOMBS ARE GOING OFF.

I am saying this as responsibly as I can. That is the certainty. On the one side, therefore, we have a definite risk. On the other side we have a certainty of disaster. BEFORE A RISK AND A CERTAINTY, A SANE MAN DOES NOT HESITATE.

CITES REPORT: Chester R. Stroup, superintendent of schools in Princeton Borough, reports that sixth, seventh and eighth grades compare favorably with recommendations of new Conant.

p.m. in the social rooms of First Presbyterian Church. A brief business session will precede a talk by the Rev. Dr. Ermenno Rostan, moderator of the Waldensian Church in Italy since September, 1968.

Dr. Rostan, who was a chaplain in the Italian Army during World War II, has been pastor of several churches in Italy and is editor of the publication, "L'eco delle Valli." He received a degree in theology from the Waldensian Seminary in Rome and a degree in law from the University of Turin, and has done graduate work at New College, University of Edinburgh.

JR. HIGH WELL RATED

By Conant Standards. Princeton Borough's sixth, seventh and eighth grades rate very well in comparison with the recommendations of the newest Conant report, according to Chester R. Stroup, Borough superintendent of schools. Mr. Conant, whose study of American high schools in 1958 received wide acclaim, conducted a study of American junior high schools in 1959 and the results were published just recently.

Princeton was included in the study, which covered 257 schools and 50 school systems in 23 states. Mr. Stroup said he felt that the study was extremely valuable and that he himself was in agreement with Mr. Conant. "We are well within the recommendations," he added.

The Conant report lists three basic necessities for a top-notch school: a first-rate school board, administrative staff and teachers. "On the quality of the teachers, in the last analysis, all depends," the report states. Commenting on this, Mr. Stroup said that acquiring and keeping top quality teachers has always been one of the main aims of Princeton schools.

The report also stresses the difference in the functions of the school board and the administrative staff, stating that it should be up to the school board to determine policy and up to the administrative staff to implement this policy. Under this theory, the administrative staff is responsible for appointing the staff, judging the quality of teaching, and determining the curriculum, including course content and textbooks. "We have been operating within this framework for some years," Mr. Stroup said.

Below Par In Two Areas. Specific recommendations are given in the Conant report regarding curriculum, teaching methods and school facilities. "Princeton stacks up pretty well on all these scores," Mr. Stroup said, adding that there are only two areas in which Princeton Borough's sixth, seventh and eighth grades fail to meet the standards set by the report.

One of these is guidance and testing and the other is library facilities. Library facilities, he said, should be larger and more varied. In guidance and testing, there should be a full-time specialist for every 250 to 300 pupils.

Plans for improvement in both these areas are currently underway, Mr. Stroup said. Improving guidance and testing, he added, has been one of the top projects at Princeton High School, which now meets the requirements, and it is hoped that it will soon be possible to have junior high school guidance on a par with the Conant Recommendations. The value of a coordinated curriculum, with a planned sequence of courses from kindergarten through the 12th grade, is also stressed by the report, Mr. Stroup said that this is now being done in —Continued on Page 19

SUCCESS STORY

How 311 N. J. Levittown families saved from $109.57 to $172.26 a year by moving up from gas to OILHEAT

These Documented Facts may help YOU make an important decision that will save you money next winter... and for years to come

Since September 1960, 311 homeowners in Levittown, N. J., switched from GAS — which was in their homes when they bought them — to modern OILHEAT.

They made this move because they were firmly convinced they would save money... enjoy greater safety... and have a clean home with modern OILHEAT.

THEY WERE RIGHT IN EVERY RESPECT. And here is the proof:

These homeowners saved from 35% to 45% over their gas bills. They saved amounts ranging from $109.57 to $172.26 during the year.

Each will save up to $4306.50 over the life of his 25-year mortgage.

Your independent OILHEAT DEALER will be glad to show how you can save SUBSTANTIAL AMOUNTS by converting from Gas to modern OILHEAT. Call him today. Or send for free booklet, "SUCCESS STORY — LEVITTOWN, N. J."

Princeton, and that curriculum conferences are being held regularly in order to be sure that there is a steady progression through the grades.

Princeton Fits Pattern. Princeton Borough's sixth, seventh and eighth grades fit the pattern set by the Conant report in all other respects, Mr. Stroup said, and in many cases are above the minimum standards set by the report. Other recommendations include:

(1) Required subjects: English, social studies, mathematics and science, plus art, music, physical education, home economics and industrial arts.
(2) Introduction of new subjects, such as algebra, science and modern languages, together with grouping students according to ability in order to provide an intellectual challenge for all pupils.

(3) Establishment of a transition from the grade school system of all classes taught by one teacher to the departmentalized arrangement of high school, where each class is taught by a different teacher. In Princeton Borough this transition begins in sixth grade, with math and science departmentalized and all other subjects from one teacher.

(4) Continuation of basic skills as long as they are beneficial to the pupils. Princeton Borough students are ahead of average in basic reading skills, as measured by the California Reading Test.

"Meaningful" Homework. (5) Inclusion of "meaningful" homework, which has been proven profitable for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students. To be meaningful, homework in all classes should be coordinated and should give the student a chance to learn something new.

(6) A program sufficiently flexible so that the student can take all subjects and does not have to choose between two equally valuable courses.

(7) A school day made up of seven periods, rather than six long periods or eight very short ones.

(8) Special facilities, including a gymnasium, auditorium, and cafeteria, plus special rooms for home economics, industrial arts, music, art, science and audio-visual aids.

REGISTRATION SET

For YWCA Spring Program. Registration for the various Spring programs of Princeton YWCA will be held next Monday through Friday. Classes, which will begin Monday, April 10, will range from retailing and golf to decoupage and music.

The retailing class, for teens and pre-teens, will run from Monday, April 10, through Monday, May 22. Open to both boys and girls at no additional cost beyond the basic Y membership fee, the class will be under the direction of J. P. Meyer of Banninger's Princeton. Also for teen-age girls will be a charm class, featuring instruction in exercise, etiquette and self-improvement.

A children's music workshop, which will be open to four, five and six-year-olds. There will also be three sessions of children's creative theatre, one for first and second grade children; one for third and fourth grades and another for fifth and sixth grades. Other children's classes include the Saturday Afternoon Club, toddlers' swim and gym classes and canoeing.

Classes for women will include modern dance, creative dance, beginning and intermediate golf, tennis, canoeing, sailing and Senior Life Saving. A new feature will be a "Koffee Klatsch" Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30, with guest speakers talking on subjects ranging from gardening and home lighting to flower arrangement and entertainment planning.

Decoupage To Be Taught. Another new class will feature instruction in decoupage, the art of pasting cutouts to make pictures or to decorate trays and furniture. Instructor will be Mrs. Dorothy Harrover, written a book on the subject. Further information about this class, which will meet Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., may be obtained by calling Miss Susan Varner at the YWCA.

A beginners' class in ceramics, taught by Rex Goreleigh, will be offered Wednesdays from 8 to 10 p.m. as a joint project with the YMCA. Registration for this and all other classes except tennis should be made at the YWCA next week. Further information about the Spring program is available through the YWCA. WA 4-8225.

PANCAKES COMING UP

At Kingston Fire Co. The Kingston Fire Company will hold a pancake breakfast Sunday, April 9, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Kingston Firehouse, on Heathcote Road just off Main Street. Proceeds will go to the Fire Company's equipment fund.

Breakfast will consist of juice, pancakes, sausage and coffee, and second and third helpings will be available. Men of the Fire Company will serve as cooks, waiters, busboys, dishwashers and cleaner-up.

Tickets, at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12, may be purchased from any fireman or at the following Kingston stores: Lou's Barber Shop, Atmand's Barber Shop, and the Kingston Wine & Liquor Store. Charles Pettillo is general breakfast chairman.

FOR THOSE IN NEED: The sympathetic ear and the helping hand are equally important to the family that is hard-pressed for cash and sympathy. Mrs. Alice Schannel of the Borough Welfare Department and her Township counterparts provide skilled assistance in people temporarily in need. The work of the Princeton welfare departments is described in a story on this page. (Staff Photo)

Topics Of The Town

"NOT QUITE ENOUGH"

The Work of Welfare. Princeton is a prosperous town. By and large, most of its citizens are relatively untouched by the economic problems that harass people who live in other areas. Not everyone is rich, but almost everyone has enough. Almost everyone, that is, not everyone. For there are, today, in Borough and Township, about 20 families who don't have quite enough to get along on, and who come, whenever they are in need to the Welfare Department of both municipalities for food, rent or a pair of shoes to keep their feet dry in the rain.

In the Borough, welfare is a one-woman part - time operation. Mrs. Alice Schannel, the welfare officer, also serves as Borough violations clerk. In the Township, Mrs. Edna Mulvey, director of welfare, has a full - time assistant, Miss Mary Kane, who joined the department two years ago. Mrs. Schannel has a monthly average of 13 cases. Miss Kane has six to eight.

The addition of a full-time assistant in the Township has reduced the overall welfare budget by almost one-half. In 1958, the welfare figure was $13,000 and in 1960 was $7,700. Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman and Mrs. Mulvey have attributed the decrease to the time Miss Kane has been able to spend finding jobs for her charges and guiding them to County agencies whose welfare funds they are eligible to receive.

Who applies for welfare aid? Mostly, it's people who just haven't enough to live on. There are widows with many children, women deserted by the fathers of their children, old people who can't live on Social Security alone, couples who find that even two steady jobs in the family aren't a joint income of $80 a week won't support a flock of eight children.

"If they can work, they will," Mrs. Schannel says. "I do have a chronic unemployed, of course—people who are alcoholics or who have so little education that they aren't equipped to do anything at all, but rarely do I get a woman or a woman—who just 'won't work.'"

Means of Help Vary. To help these families, welfare may pay the rent, write out a food order, give clothing when it is needed, or distribute food from the surplus commodities that the government makes available. (Welfare departments do not give cash.) Surplus commodities—beans, rice, flour, dried milk, dried eggs and lard—are distributed by the department according to a sliding scale of need, and at present, there are 30 Township families on the commodities list. The Borough does not give out surplus commodities, chiefly because Mrs. Schannel, as a one-woman, part - time as five years of the time she came to the department two years ago and began her work as job detective. Now, almost all these people have jobs. The actual money doled out is paid back by the state up to 40 percent of the total, and up to 80 percent for medical indigents.

Other Assistance Offered. The department's work does not stop with the job and the contact with the agency. Miss Kane will give a hand with veterans' or social security problems, or she will take an outpatient to the Hospital if transportation is necessary. Sometimes she arranges to pay a neighbor to prepare meals for a woman is temporarily bedridden, or she will corral the children of a family and get them interested in the scholarship membership in the YMCA (the boy or the girl will then work off her scholarship stuffing envelopes for the "Y.")

Miss Kane says, with pleasure, that she has maintained such close contact with her "cases," that many of whom are off and on again depending on the turn of fortune, that many of them regard her as a confidante and friend. One woman held up her two fingers, side by side, and said to Miss Kane with a happy smile, "I feel toward you like these two fingers—as close as can be!"

MISS WRIGHT HONORED

Receives National Citation. Miss Jeanne M. Wright of 18 Marion Road West, former assistant principal and dean of girls at Princeton High School, has been awarded a citation by the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors for "her long years of distinguished leadership to young women" in the field of education.

The citation was presented at the association's annual convention last week at the Hilton Hotel, Denver, Colorado. Only five such citations were awarded to women in the area of secondary education, and Miss Wright was the only dean in New Jersey who was so honored. Recipients of the citation must have spent 25 years in educational work, 25 of these as dean of women or girls or in a comparable position.

Miss Wright retired last June as assistant principal and dean of girls at Princeton High School. She first joined the faculty in 1921 as a teacher of Latin and French. In 1933 she was made director of extra-curricular activities and in 1934 the position of dean of girls was created for her. She continued to teach one class in Latin until 1958, when she was named assistant principal.

A graduate of Wilson College, Miss Wright received her M.A. degree from Columbia University.

Report from THE MAYOR

A New Nation: Thanks are due to a number of Princeton families who played host on Sunday to a dozen distinguished visitors from the far-away land of Ruanda-Urundi.

This young country is the most densely populated of the African nations. It lies east of the troubled Congo and next year it will be electing its officials under a new constitution.

The hospitality committee of Princeton A.A.U.N. chapter reached out to the families who had volunteered last year in response to the Mayor's request for French-speaking Princetonians who would like to help in this important venture in international good-will. Our new friends from Ruanda-Urundi spoke no English; but they soon felt welcome here.

The Mayor's halting French improved noticeably in one short day. It had to.

Learning: For many of us, it was a learning experience that involved, quite frankly, a new knowledge of a country and a people that had just been a name on the changing map of Africa. Now we feel we know well a dozen very well-trained, alert young representatives from this distant land.

As the UN now knows, Princeton intends to be a center of friendship and hospitality to those UN staff and delegates who want a chance to leave the big city of New York and to see a friendly small town and her people. We hope they will visit again and again.

Spanish, Too: Many of our visitors from Latin America are Spanish-speaking guests who would be interested in visit with hosts who speak their language. If you wish to join in this program, please call Walnut 6-2286 any day or evening. Mrs. Clara Ponce de Leon of the Columbian delegation has sent us the names of 12 Spanish-speaking UN staff who would be interested in visiting Princeton.

Just Three Hours: The Mayor learned again the importance of language in a shrinking world when after three hours by jet plane, he found himself standing outside the borough hall in old San Juan. Here urban renewal is actively restoring the beauty of this very old town.

They have learned to spare the bulldozer whenever possible and to make use of the rich architectural heritage that has been part of this island for centuries. A highlight of last week's brief two-day visit was a meeting with Governor Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico. This great statesman lives and works in the historic Fortaleza, built more than four centuries ago. He remembered warmly his visit to Princeton and to Morven, built more "recently" in 1701.

Thursday Open House: The regular weekly "Tell It to the Mayor!" sessions will be held on Thursday, March 30, and on Thursday, April 6, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal sessions.

One young visitor was not among the scheduled meeting, but came to "tell it to the Mayor!" at home on Sunday night. This visitor was lost, and if some one is looking for a friendly, unlicensed black cocker spaniel, please contact the Borough police promptly.

Welcomer: The Mayor has many opportunities to welcome guests to Princeton. On Sunday evening, at the invitation of the Princeton Committee for a Safe Nuclear Policy, a brief word of welcome was extended to those who were participating in the March for Peace.

Some question the approach, but it is clear that these men and women are sincerely trying to find constructive answers in the disastrous possibilities of nuclear war through controlled disarmament and a ban on both tests. They favor a strong UN peace force.

The course was sponsored by the Veterinary Medical Association of New Jersey, the United States Public Health Service and the New Jersey State Department of Health, of which Dr. Sussman is chief of the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dodge have sold their house at 708 Kingston Road and will leave in mid-April for a year's travel in Africa and the Orient. They plan to return to the Princeton area at the end of their trip.

NEW JERSEY BELL

AFTER 84 YEARS, A NEW HOME FOR THE TIGER: Princeton's baseball team will play on this still un-named field east of Palmer Stadium Friday when it opens its 1981 season. Last time a move was made was when the site above was in use last spring, by freshmen, who now move to an adjacent field.

SPORTS In Princeton

NEW SEASON NEW FIELD

Tiger Nine Needs Pitchers
For the first time since 1876 Princeton will play baseball in a new location. When the 1981 Tiger nine entertains Massachusetts Friday afternoon at 3 the game will take place on the new diamond east of Palmer Stadium. University Field, site of many a dramatic diamond battle, gave way last summer to the new engineering quadrangle. The final game was fittingly an 8-2 triumph for the Orange and Black over its traditional rival, Yale.

Actually Princeton has opened one other season on a different site than University Field. Four or five years ago, a late March snowstorm made use of the varsity diamond impossible and the first two games were held on Brookav Field. The day was cold enough so that the few fans in attendance built a fire to keep warm.

Friday's shift to the new diamond will, however, be the first official switch in more than eight decades. The field is still unequipped with stands and there's no telling when the University's tight athletic budget will permit their construction.

Two Games This Weekend.
A pair of New England nines beginning their southern trips will provide the initial opposition of the 1981 season. The University of Maine will follow Massachusetts here, playing Saturday at 2.

Wednesday Seton Hall will be on hand for a contest scheduled to begin as late as 4 o'clock and unlikely to go the full nine innings. The Tigers will travel to New Brunswick Friday and entertain Amherst a week from Saturday.

One Experienced Pitcher. A sophomore who compiled a 5-4 record last season and a 3.20 earned run average will bear the brunt of the pitching duties this season. He is Wally Phillips, a senior with a good deal of poise who will win his share of games if he gets average support afield and at the plate.

The graduation of Dave Douglas whose victories last spring included a no-hitter over Manhattan leaves a big hole in the pitching staff. Lee Hegner a senior used largely in relief last year will work after Phillips, while a sophomore, Teup Schoolwerth, is the best of the newcomers.

Elmer Naples, a two-year veteran behind the plate, and junior Roger Hoyt will give the Tigers good experience as catchers. The infield, too, is virtually an all-veteran unit, lending hope that a tight defense will be among the team's assets this season.

Bill MacMillan, who paced the Orange and Black at the plate with a .355 average, will be at first again. Second base will go to either Bill Karjane or Don Marquet, who alternated there last spring, with Jack Whitehouse a fixture at shortstop despite his late arrival after the extended basketball season. Captain Bob Myslik is back at third base, where he is particularly good with the glove.

Outfield Is Open. Loss of two of last year's three outfielders poses another major problem for Coach Eddie Donovan. Mike Ippolito, 1980 captain, was steady defensively and hit the long ball. Gone, too, is Ken Murray, who had above-average power at the plate.

Mike Devine, a fine defensive centerfielder, is returning after having broken into the lineup as a sophomore. Olin West and Paul Finch, both of whom show signs of hitting ability, are the top 1980 recruits in contention for the outfield vacancies.

The Tigers' sights are set on bettering their fifth-place finish in the Eastern League, but they'll need a one-two pitching punch to turn the trick. A good defense also appears to be essential, since this does not loom as a high-scoring team.

Army, last year's champion, is a possible bet to repeat, with Columbia, Penn and Navy other strong entries in the ten-team circuit. Back-to-back games with Brown and Harvard here two weekends from now will open the Tigers' league season.

LACROSSE TEAM WINS
From Maryland Saturday. A one-sided triumph over the Philadelphia Lacrosse Club opened the Princeton Lacrosse season Saturday, with tougher opposition due this weekend.

LOOKING AHEAD to the opening dual track meet with New Brunswick on April 19 are Lamont Fletcher, ace hurdler and co-captain of this year's Princeton High School track team, and Little Tiger coach, Win Niles. Hope for a repeat of another successful season dimmed somewhat with the report that co-captain Joe Beachell has been sidelined indefinitely with an attack of pneumonia. (Staff Photo.)

Sports In Princeton

Paced by Phil Allen's four goals, the Tigers trounced the Philadelphia Blues, 15 to 5. Five goals in each of the first two periods gave them a 10-2 lead at the intermission.

Maryland's good team, invariably a contender for national honors, will play here Saturday at 2:30 on Poe Field. Princeton figures to be outmanned, but an upset is by no means out of the question.

WINTER SPORTS END

Fencers. Finish Second. A fine second-place finish behind all-victories New York University was credited to Princeton in the NCAA fencing tournament, staged last weekend in Dillon Gymnasium.

The Violets won the event for the second straight year, compiling a total of 79 victories with the sabre, foil and epee. Princeton was credited with 85, paced by Frank Anger with 25 in the epee division.

Anger was chosen as the NCAA fencer of the year, by Princeton Coach Stan Sieja was voted the coach of the year. His selection was made by the 30 other coaches whose letters entered the two-day event.

Relay Team Fifth. A time of 3:46.4 was good for fifth place in the finals of the NCAA swimming tournament Saturday in Seattle. The Princeton quartet's time was the best of any eastern entry.

Gardiner Green was clocked in 1:02.1 for a fourth-place finish in the 100-yard breaststroke. Tom Welch failed to place in the backstroke.

PRACTICE BEGINS

For PHS Trackmen. Approximately 65 track candidates have answered the call to practice issued by Win Niles, starting his seventh year as head man in the sport at Princeton High School. The Little Tigers will open their season April 19 when they play host to New Brunswick High School.

Last year with the help of such now-departed standout performers as Ridge Applegate, Dick Lappan, Dave Kilgour and Steve Schifetta, PHS won six and lost two meets, dropping decisions to Highland Park, 1960 State Champions, and to New Brunswick, perennial Group IV track power.

Led by its co-captains, Lamont Fletcher and Joe Beachell, the Blue and White figures to be strong this spring in the hurdle and weight events. "We'll be weaker in the broad jump, high jump and the middle distances, particularly the half and the quarter mile," said Niles, "but we expect to get help in these events from some new boys."

Fletcher, a senior, will cap a fine track career as a hurdler this year. Last year, the fleet, wiry speedster was unbeaten in dual meet competition in the 120-yard low hurdles and 180-yard high. In the state meet last year at Rutgers Stadium, Lamont, who also competes in the broad jump, placed second in the low and third in the high hurdles.

The team's other co-captain, Beachell, limits himself to the javelin event, but Joe, according to coach Niles, is developing faster in this event than the memorable Nick Kovalak of a few seasons back. Only 5-9 and 165 pounds, considered somewhat small dimensions for the javelin, Joe set a New Brunswick High School Invitational Meet record last year with a toss of 102 feet, 11 and 7-8 inches. He's a senior.

Could Handles Weights. Returning lettermen who will bolster the team are Howard Gould in the shot put and discus events, Tom Harvey in the mile and half mile, and Pepper Constable in the half mile. Junior Rich Montgomery is being relied on heavily to replace the graduated Jack Copeland in the pole vault and the departed Kilgour in the high jump. Another promising jumper, Jim Barbour, is a doubtful performer, having yet to recover fully from a football injury.

Another football player Niles expects to tap for double service is Bob Salter. Bigger and stronger than he was last year when he ran the 220, Salter will probably see action in the longer 440 and 880 distances.

Two more cindermen who should help add points for PHS are Dick Tinsley and Roger Slayback. Tinsley, labeled by Niles as "an outstanding cross country runner" who consistently finished far in front of his competitors, is slated to join Harvey in the mile. Slayback will —Continued on Page 25

Jake McCandless
Basketball Coach

If ever a reserve who figured to spend the season on the bench was thrust unexpectedly into the spotlight, it was Jake McCandless. When the 1960-61 basketball campaign began, he was an assistant coach and scout; before the half-way mark had been reached, he had been elevated overnight to the job of acting coach by the heart attack that felled Cappy Cappon.

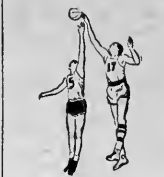

McCandless' problem was that only the best was good enough. A heavy pre-season favorite to repeat in the Ivy League, Princeton had lived up to expectations early by winning its first four games in championship play. Then came the term-end break for exams and Cappon's removal from further coaching duties for the rest of the season.

Fortunately for McCandless' point of view, he had a pair of non-league games with Army and Colgate before returning to Ivy work. In fact, it worked in his favor, too, that he had scouted Princeton's season-opening game to Coach Cappon, but as it turned out, for the express benefit of Acting Coach McCandless.

The Tigers took that one, 77 to 55, and it removed much of the pressure. They won a couple of rough road trips ahead, and the problem of winning two games in as many days was a bit more than the Tigers could solve.

But they were invincible at home. Penn was not with McCandless running his team with the vision of a veteran, they wrapped the Ivy crown before the season ended.

Two members of the Tiger squad, Captain - elect Al

Kaemmelien and Pete Campbell, won all-Ivy rating. The team was also good enough to step out of Ivy ranks and win the first NCAA game to be played at a Princeton basketball team.

Last fall, standout play by Princeton backs was a major factor in carrying the Tigers to an unexpectedly high second-place finish in football.

Predictably, McCandless put in as backfield coach. No announcement has been made as to whether Cappon will resume basketball coaching next winter. Eventually, however, a successor in the post he has filled so well will be named. The name, you can be sure, will be McCandless.

"TIROS" BREAKS GROUND

Signal flashed to Earth. A radio signal from Tiros II, the weather satellite, flashed to earth Thursday and detonated the explosive charge that broke ground for the RCA Astro-Electronics Division Space Center. In the new multi-million-dollar engineering facility, complete satellites and space vehicles will be tested under harsh environmental conditions similar to those they will encounter in outer space.

The ground-breaking ceremonies took place when Tiros was at its closest point to the earth. A radio signal was sent up to activate the satellite's cameras, and Tiros, which was focused on an area near Omaha, replied by transmitting a photograph of a cloud layer in that area. The signal touched off an explosion that tore a small hole in the ground at the site of the new Princeton Center.

Tiros, which performed its ground-breaking function on its 1763rd trip around the earth, was built and designed by RCA for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Tiros II, the second of the satellites, was launched from Cape Canaveral on November 23 and is still in full operation, televising cloud patterns and measuring the heat balance of the atmosphere around the world, for weather research and forecasting.

The new space environment center will be one of the largest and most advanced facilities in the country, with a large vacuum chamber capable of containing complete payloads for test under vacuum and temperature conditions similar to those that prevail hundreds of miles above the earth.

Walter G. Baer, vice-president and general manager for Communications and Aerospace of RCA Defense Electronic Products, pointed out that the new center will strengthen the effectiveness of the nation's space defenses and will contribute new knowledge to man-space and space exploration programs.

Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, senior executive vice-president of RCA, said that the ground-breaking marked "an auspicious day for all who are concerned with the advance of the nation's space program."

"This new center," said Dr. Engstrom, "provides a powerful instrument with which to develop the soundings of new concepts that will be incorporated in the next generation of satellites and space vehicles. It will add substantially to a potential that is being swiftly developed here and across the land by the combined forces of government, universities and private enterprise."

RETAILERS MEET

Diverse Competition. The competition, present and future of the shopping centers that are beginning to encircle the Princeton community was discussed Wednesday at a meeting of the Retail Division of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council, attended by about 60 persons. It was announced that the Parking Committee has written to Borough Council suggesting that all parking on Nassau Street be one hour, that parking of parking meters be equal all over town, and that truck parking and loading zones be placed near the Borough Engineer Arthur Brakewell will report on the cost of changing the meters to one-hour cycles.

The Committee also recorded its objection to "meter feeders" and suggested that one way of meeting this problem would be to provide off-street parking for retail employees who now take up parking spaces on an all-day basis. It was also suggested that a trolley bus service for shoppers might alleviate the parking problem. Representatives of a New York promotion firm showed slides of a Plainfield promotion which had, so the representative said, been successful in drawing peripheral shoppers into Plainfield. The presentation was introduced as "food for thought," and was offered as "one of the many ways we might attract business to Princeton."

The Plainfield promotion was based on a four-season plan involving community-wide fashion shows, contests for teenagers, a "Christmas in U.S.A." in which the names of streets were changed to conform to the Christmas season, "California Moves to New Jersey" summer promotion and so on.

"If you want to draw women shoppers into Princeton," the promoters said, "you must offer them something vital, mobile, fashionable and exciting."

UNEMPLOYMENT

Chamber Surveys. An informal telephone survey of the unemployment situation in Princeton was made recently by the executive director of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce. The director called 27 organizations employing from 65 to 3,000 persons.

Almost every business firm mentioned the continuing shortage of clerks, bookkeepers and secretaries. Asked whether they had noticed any marked increase in the number of job applicants over the past two months, nine firms said they had noticed no change. The the ministry," Mr. Briskey says. "This is unexplainable and incomprehensible, but a man should feel that the presence of His spirit calling him to the pastorate."

At the time of his "call," if young Clarence Briskey was a convinced member of the Society of Friends it was not until he was a senior in Seminary that he left the Friends after a great deal of thought and anguish, and joined the Presbyterian church because he believed that, in present-day society, it most closely resembled the New Testament church as it related to the society of early Christian times.

"I felt that, in the language of the Friends, the Presbyterian Church 'spoke to the condition' of modern society, in a personal and a social way," Mr. Briskey explains.

He came east to Princeton Theological Seminary because it met his two requirements: real academic excellence and a climate of true piety and faith. During his years at the Seminary, he was vice-president of the student body, a public director, student pastor at a church in Reville and assisted in the ministry of Dr. Mackenzie of the First Presbyterian Church, Avenel.

"The greatest thing a minister can hope to do is to proclaim the Gospel and make its claims relevant to modern society," he says, "and where they are, through preaching, visitation, counseling and the Sacraments."

After coming to Kingston, the Rev. Mr. Briskey inaugurated the Sunday School for Veterans that have proved so meaningful to his congregation. These are informal meetings which are intended to give "more intimate Christian Fellowship," says Mr. Briskey.

He is fascinated by the development of the population of the "sleepy little village" to a bustling community which is beginning to rival the growth of the population growth of the area. His church was founded in 1723 and it existed before there was a town. The Church in Princeton, and the young westerner has a keen sense of the "anomaly" of his adopted eastern community.

Aside from fascination with the community, it is the active life of sports that provides the most extracurricular outlet for the Kingston pastor. Varsity letterman in college football, an avid basketball player, University's football team, Briskey gets his exercise these days from the well-organized Kingston Presbyterian football team, which plays a 20-game season, each summer, and from hunting and fishing. He also swims regularly at the YMCA. Mr. Briskey's wife, whom he married in his senior year of college, is the former Dorothy Metz.
